From the profits of their business they have acquired some of the most desirable have acquired some of the most desirable and central business houses in the city. They have become owners of large and productive mines in the west, and they have taken leading positions in society and politics. The ostensible cause for the separation of these two successful men is the claim of the retiring partner that he is overworked, and prefers to draw out and attend only to his other business interests. But dame gossio is busy in spreading the But dame gossip is busy in spreading the story that the good ladies of these two es story that the good hades of these two es-timable gentlemen are affected with that venemous passion jealousy, and that they have socially ostracised each other for many months; and "they say" this is the real motive. Leiter can afford to leave, since he takes with him to comfort him in his declining years a very snug competence, variously estimated at from $5,000,000 to 12,000,000.

The growth of the house has been rapid and remarkable. They now have houses in Manchester, Paris, Berlin and New York. Their wholesale business alone last year amounted to over $20,000,000.

THE ELECTORAL VOTE. The Effect and Result of Yesterday's Action in the House.

[Washington special to Cincinnati Gazette.] The Democrats in the house entered upon he filibustering course over the electoral the filibustering course over the electoral joint rule, which they have so long adver-tised, and ended their attempt after an ased, and ended their attempt after anignominious failure. On the very first roll call the democrats lacked nearly twenty of a quorum, and while they nearly approached a quorum on some subsequent rolls, owing to the zeal of some of their whippers in, there never was a time during the day when a democratic quorum was present. There probably will never be a time on any day during the remainder of this congress when a democratic quorum will be present.
Some of the democrats enjoy their defeat. This is especially true of the antiRandall clique, who consider the defeat more of a disaster to Speaker Randall than to the party, inasmuch as the proposition to make this contest proceeded mainly from Randall. (Special to Cincinnate Commercial.) Speer, Felton and Tom Turner, of Kentucky, voted with the democrats to proceed to the consideration of Bicknell's resolutions, but they will vote against them finally if a vote is reached. The greenbackers also who voted in the hope of making a quorum are opposed to the count rule. Mills, of Texas, another democrat, does not like the proposed rule, preferring the old twenty-second joint rule, which the demo-crats repealed after Hayes's election, and which was in operation from 1865 to 1877.

[Special to Cincinnati Enquirer.] The electoral resolutions are in charge of Judge Bicknell, of Indiana. He is a man full of democratic zeal, honest beyond question, but utterly without parliamentary ability or tact. He thinks slowly and acts slower. It was a mistake to place him in a position to bear the brunt of the republi-the experiment on Saturday. Sam Randall still has hopes that the democratic members will gather themselves together and defeat the republicans for once. It is a grave question of doubt, however, for even some of the faithful say the electoral reso-lutions don't amount to anything, and they don't care a d—n if they are passed or not. The Republican Program.

[Special to Cincinnati Gazette.] The resolution presented in the senate by Mr. Ingalls, of Kansas, inviting the house to be present in the senate to count the elector-al vote, is the result of the deliberations of the republican senatorial caucus committee. The resolution, which was submitted, is in the exact words of the resolution which was adopted in 1801, and in 1805, and under which the electoral votes wore counted in these years.

This is the republican programme for a quiet and orderly counting of the electoral GEOK TEPE. Chivalrous Performance During the Recent Storming.

St. Petersburg, January 27.—An official telegram in regard to events prior to the capture of Geok Tepe, states that in consequence of the large number of corpses of Tekke-Turcomans, more or less decomposed, lying before and behind the Russian positions, and in view of the impossibility of burying them without incurring fresh losses, General Skobeloff proposed to the losses, General Skobelon proposed to the Tekkes from a tower of observation, eighty yards from the main rampart of the for-tress, that they should remove their dead, hostilities to be suspended for one hour; and in order to avoid any misunderstand-ing, it was proposed to the Tekkes that they should afterwards reoccupy their po-sitions, and should be the first to reopen fire. This was done after due warning given to the Russians, the Tekkes taking care not to fire until the Russians, who had tsmporarily left their trenches, had returned into them. The conduct of the Tekke-Tur-comans was altogether honorable. The fighting was afterwards renewed with for-

Matthews will be Confirmed. [Special to Cincinnati Enquirer.] The nomination of Stanley Matthews to be an associate judge of the supreme court was sent by the president to-day to the sen-ate. The nomination will undoubtedly be unanimously confirmed.

[Special to Cincinnati Gazette.] general talk among senators indi cates that Stanley Matthews will be confirmed by a large majority.

As regards the nomination of Matthews there is universal testimony as to his ability. The justices all look forward with pleasure to his coming. In high legal circles he is regarded as one of the greatest lawyers of the present generation. Mr. Matthews has long desired to go upon the bench. Some time ago, when one having the authority of the president suggested the supreme bench to Mr. Matthews, he replied: "Yes, if offered me I would ac cept. To go upon the supreme bench has been the ambition of my life." The nomination will be confirmed by a unanimous vote.

The New Senator from Tennessee.

[Memphis special.] The Hon. Howell E. Jackson, was a suc cessful lawyer here for many years, and in ability is regarded as the equal, if not superior to, the present Senator Bailey, whom he is to succeed. In legal circles he ranks with the first in the state. He has never with the first in the state. He has never taken an active part in politics. Years ago losing his wife, he removed to Jackson, Tenn., fifty miles east of this, where he was reared, and he was recently elected from that county to the legislature. He belongs to the high credit, or state-debt paying wing of the democrats, but is moderate, and not obnoxious to the low-tax democrats.
[Washington special.]

Jackson, the senator-elect, is spoken of by the few who know him, as a democrat to the backbone, time-tried and fire-tested —a modern edition of Old Hickory him-self, whose name he bears.

Queer Cause of Death.

St. Louis, January 27.—Lieutenant Gibson. of the 7th cavalry, died of inflammation of the brain, believed to be the result of a circumstance which occurred while he was at West Point. One day, while on parade, a spider got into one of his ears, which had already been injured by scarlet fever. By the rules he was not allowed to raise his hand, and stood in the ranks more than an hour while the spider worked its way in his ear. When dismissed his ear was full of blood, and the insect could not be removed for two days. This caused a be removed for two days. This caused a corrosion of the bone next to the brain and gave him a good deal of trouble. He went to his regiment in Northern Dakota, however, and after performing considerable service and suffering from a severe attack of sickness, he came home, expecting to resign, but, as it proved, only to die.

Reformatory Investigation.

The second meeting of the reformator investigating committee was held last Mrs. Nancy E. Clem being the first witness She testified that she was in punishment now because she refused to find out what Mrs. Talbett would swear to before the investigation committee. Mrs. Smith would not let her speak to others because she was afraid she would tell something about the management of the institution. management of the institution. The prisoners are not fed well. The meat is mostly fat bacon, and the tea bad and cheap. Mrs. Peters, who was confined in a room with her, was refused medicine for her throat. Mrs. Johnson sometimes slapped the prisoners very hard. Several of the prisoners had told witness that they were punished, but she herself had never been whipped or ducked, only worked hard. Had heard some women scream "murder" while being whipped. Witness testified that Aunty Smith came to her and told her she wanted her to find out what Mrs. Talbott and Hattie Raiber would swear to, as the legislature would swear to, as the legislature was coming on and she expected to have a pretty rough time in keeping her place. Mrs.Johnson is very rough, and the print of her fingers can be seen on the girl's ace after she has struck them. Mrs. Smith uses very strange language, and with has heard her use profane words, I being recalled Mrs. Clem testified she knew of one inmate who died of ex-treme punishment, but she did not see her punished. The witness detailed some other cases of punishment of sick girls, none of which, however, she had seen. During this last examination of Mrs. Clem the hear-say character of her testimony was objected to, and the question was not

John A Finch was called as a witness. He was formerly one of the board of managers for about two years. No rules for punish men of particular offenses were made by the board, but the matter was trusted to Mrs. Smith, in whom the board had perfect confidence. The board did not forbid punshment by ducking, but recommended tha it should be used only in extreme cases. Never heard of any of the girls being sent to the hospital, or that there were any premature births in the institution. The board was accustomed to buy a medium quality of supplies. The main objection of the witness to the reference was that of the witness to the refermatory was that there were no proper means of punishment in the way of cells or solitary confinement. Ida Withers (colored) testified that she had been punished several times since going to the prison. Once she was hand-cuffed and thrown on the floor. She had been struck in the face by Mrs. Johnson, and had had two pitchers of water thrown Into her face.

Laura Johnson, who served a seven years term at the reformatory for grand larceny, said that she was punished the first time for saying that she was tired of washing by for saying that she was tired of washing by being locked up. Mrs. Johnson had whipped her with a slipper in the office. Another time Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Smith both whipped her, one with a slipper and the other with a rope. It seemed to witness like they had whipped her for an hour. She had seen saveral prisoners ducked by turning the water from the fire hose in their faces. The witness thought several of the girls had been injured by these punishments. Witness testified that she was now an inmate of Fannie Ross' house of ill-fame, and had been in several others in the city.

THE DAILY NEWS.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 27, 1881.

TENNESSEE sends a democrat to the ser ate. Pennsylvania will send a republican and then "Mahone of Virginia" will begin to loom up as a member of importance.

WHY should the legislature pass a bill creating a police judge for this city, when the councils already have the power to make one? This is a conundrum we should like to have answered.

CINCINNATI is going to have an opera festival and she wants rapid transit, and has a southern railroad and would like to see immoral shows abolished; in short, Cincanati is alive and kicking.

THE last, and we believe the worst, that that superserviceable top-heavy taft hunter. Edwards Pierrepont, is trying to wriggle his small proportions into Garfield's cabinet. From all such good Lord deliver

ONLY three of the thirty thousand dol lars necessary for the inauguration ceremonies have been raised. It would be good thing if no more would be forthcom ing: then we might have a sensible, business-like republican inauguration, devoid of all fustian, feathers and clap-trap which make a royal pageant of it.

THE resolution to inquire into the expe diency of establishing postal telegraphy is reported to the house with a recommenda tion that it do pass. Preliminary to action upon it we should have a reform of the civil service. If the government ever does go into the telegraph menopely, in order to save the people from a worse monopoly, it should be under restrictions which will keep all of the offices out of politics.

SUBSTANTIAL justice at least, is in a fall way to become the pertion of the Poncas, and their "wrongs" are to be compensated as far as may be within the power of goverament, if the recommendations of the commission are heeded. They are to have land in their old Dakota reservation, and money and provision for the erection of dwellings and school houses. "Bright eyes" has secured several points, almost making a "society success," and doubtless there will be justice done, as congress seems to be in the mood.

FOR a long time The News urged that the mayor and policemen should not be allowed to receive fees, the former getting a salary beside. Councilman McKay, early the evil of the fee system, advocated a thorough reform, and the present council adepted his plan. Since the first of June the mayor has paid into the city treasury an average of $179 per month, and bability is that this will be increased in the future. This is a gratifying demonstration of the success of the idea. The only change that should be made is to reduce the salary of the mayer. He new gets $4,000 a year; $3,000 is enough.

Two trustees for the institution for the blind draw together $600 per year; two for the deaf and dumb $800; two for the insane $1,200, and the president of all these boards draws either $1,600 or $2,500, we can not determine from the reading of the law which. If he draws $1,600 there is a total of $4,200 per year paid for the services of taustees of the state's benevolent institutions; if he draws $2,500 there is $4,700 per year paid. It is a useless waste, Without sons, which are edious, we undertake to say that the services of better men could be secured as trustees for those institutions, at a mere reimbursement for expenses and perhaps a small per diem than is in the long run secured by attach-thirty-three cents. We trust it will do nothing of the kind. The law has not been fairly tried, as it was passed only two years ago. The trouble is there never has been a fair attempt to live up to it and economize. County expenses have been maintained. There are many places in which saving can be made. In the courts for instance. The criminal court could be abelished and the work put on the circuit court where it belongs, this county being made a circuit if necessary. The court would not be overworked by a good deal. Then a great deal could be saved on juries. Political dead beats and hangers on are now given places on the regular panels, to pay them for alleged services. In many cases they are not allowed to serve, yet their pay goes on all the same. If the legislature will pass a law authorizing payment of jurors for actual service only, it will cut off a needless expenditure, and perhaps raise the standard of Marion county juries a little, which have been degenerating for years. A COMMUNICATION in The News of yesterday, wants the lash for wife beaters applied to the men who sell them whisky. and thus put them in the condition to be wife beaters. Assuming that all wife beaters are drunkards, and that that brutality is the offspring of the maddening influences of drink, we see no force in the legie that would punish the men who sell the drink. The selling of intoxicants is, under our queer system of administration a recognized and legal trade; to punish such trader because the customer misuses the goods he buys is certainly a whimsical notion. But it is worse than this for it proceeds upon the false sentiment that the drunkard is a victim to be pitied, instead of a criminal to be punished. This same notion which springs from the influence women have had upon legislation and administration extends to all sorts of scoundrels, until it has become a living force withholding the rightful punishment from the real criminal, so that it is largely impossible to punish a murderer, or any other lawbreaker. It is bringing law into contempt and breaking up the anchorage of society.

MR. HAMILTON'S bill for the government of the benevolent institutions, consolidating all the boards into one of three members, two of which shall receive $1,500 per year salary, and one $1,800, is, in our opinion, mistaken in theory, wrong in principle, and, in the matter of the salaries attached, a guage. The theory that the institutions should have one board is a false one. It is a false notion for them to have one president, as they now have. What sense there is in it we cannot see. One of the institutions is a hospital or asylum, the others are educational institutions, each teaching by totally different methods. There would be as much reason in uniting the state University and the Reformatory under one management. In principle this bill is wrong, for it is in the direction of multiplication of offices; increasing the number of rewards within the bestewal of political parties; convenient things to pentax payers. It is true this bill contemplates but three efficers. where there are new seven, but it makes them prizes of greater value. It pays them in the lump, $4,800, which is a little more than is now paid for the same service; thus we see the vicious system spreading, at every step getting a little deeper into the state treasury. We object to this, not for the money involved, because the state is able to pay for any service it wants, but because this service as it exists, and as it is contemplated by Mr. Hamilton's bill, is an artificial one, created to get money. No such supervision is demanded upon the part of such trustees as to warrant the payment of the salaries they get, let alone the snug incomes provided by this bill. The men who should do the work connected with the management of those institutions demanding time, are the superintendents and stewards. They should devote their whole time to it. should be competent men and the results of their work, step by step, should be reported to the trustees, who can examine and ratify or overthrow as they see fit. For such supervisory services ne great mount of time is demanded. All that is requisite is common honesty and common sense, and the benevolent institutions should be administered upon this basis. The theory of the present system and of the Hamilton bill is to unnecessarily take duties from the riewards and put them upon trustees, in order that there may be an

The Grip Tightening. A scene in an Irish town is described by the cable dispatches this morning, that furnishes a better explanation than a whole session of parliamentary speeches, of the bitterness and persistence of Irish hostility to England. About two hundred famished people gathered about the deor of the building where the poor law guardians were assembled, and begged for work. The guardians had no work for them, and such officers rarely have for any considerable force of laborers. Then the starying men, strong and eager for work but unable to get it, broke violently into the guardians' room to compel temporary relief, if they could do no better. The passage way was crowded with sullen men, say age with hunger, and many the rear were crying in extremity of suffering and hopeless The guardians were told that they should not have the room till something was done for the distress that could find no other relief, and a temporary provision was made break out in conspiracies and assassina tions? The Irish all understand that, primarily, English landlord laws are the cause of most of Ireland's destitution, and with the usual logic of suffering they track all troubles to the same source.

Whether they are taking the best course to remedy the evils they have borne so ong, is not by any means as clear as the necessity of a remedy. The virtual acquittal of the league "conspirators" in the recent trial in Dublin-a jury ten to two against conviction, is pretty much a finality as far as public prosecutions go-and the disorder prevalent since the Boycott affair and growing constantly, shows that with the legal means now at command, the government is powerless. Mr. Secretary Forster's coercion measures are now a demonstrated necessity, with the alternative of giving up all authority in Ireland forever. To enforce them England will use all her power, and it is very doubtful if the Irish have been half as energetic in organizing resistance as in displaying the motives of it. We suspect it will appear in the end that the leaguers have built more upon parliamentary "filibustering" and popular demonstrations than well devised preparation for the fight which is sure to come, if fear of the coercion act does not produce submission without it. The fussy and obstructive conduct of most of the Irish members during the pretracted debate that closed vesterday. with an overwhelming vote in support of the government-tories joining the liberals in it and making a vote of 251 to 33-has not the look of men resolutely set on daring the last extremity of national peril, and prepared for it. Men who have taken their ives in their hands to accomplish a great work, den't behave so much like angry school boys. If continued disturbances produce collisions between the troops and the people, as seems nearly inevitable new. the outcome, we are very fearful, will be another overthrow of Irish hopes, and another long postponement of Irish disenthrallment.

It is the only home company that has reached such a success one or two other successful ones in the state having being local, and all the indieations are that it is thoroughly sound and conservatively managed. We talk a good deal about building up home institutions, and certainly one with such claims as the Franklin should not be passed by.

A Pin in a Girl's Tongue Eleven Years.

Miss Harvey, a sister of Mrs. E. R. Brunage of Candor, when eleven or twelve years of age, was one evening making hurried preparations to attend a party. She had a pin between her lips, which passed into her mouth, and was supposed to be swallowed. Dr. Miller assumed such to be the fact, but the girl insisted that it was the fact, but the girl insisted that it was under her tongue. The physician made search for it there, but failed to discover it there, and treated her protestations as the work of imagination. Recently Miss Harvey had a large bunch or swelling come upon one side of her tongue, increasing in painfulness. Dr. L. D. Farnham opened the swelling. The next day after eleven years of spacessful hidjung the pin came years of successful biding, the pin came out of the opening. It was two thirds cov-ered with a lime formation, and was much

PARKE COUNTY.

Its Coal Resources and Other Advantages

—About the Best Pince in the World,
According to One of its Natives. According to One of its Natives.

John H. Beadle, of the Rockville Tribune, dropped into The News office this morning, and in his rollicking style, gave a large amount of curious information about the soil in his native county. It is not possible to give more than a few point in his discourse; the fact he urged most earnestly was that Parke has eight well defined coal seams, and that a direct route to Indianapolis, and a general and systematic plan of working, is all that is required to make it the great coal region of western Indiana. But let him tell the thing his own way:

"I am occasionally asked," said Beadle, "Whether there is really any reliable coal deposit in Parke, which seems very funny to me when I remember that three of the best geologists in the country have officially

"Whether there is really any reliable coal deposit in Parke, which seems very funny to me when I remember that three of the best geologists in the country have officially answered the question—they have three times reported to the state that Parke has practically inexhaustible beds of the finest coal, their reports dating as far back as 1858. May be the skepticism on this point is due to the principle of reaction; for Prof. Brown, the first who geologized Parke, reported that it had coal enough to do the world! Of course people did not believe that, and it may have led them to think the whole thing a "hoodo." Personally I had a queer experience in investigating the subject."

Reporter.—"As how?"

Beadle.—"Why, I came back there two years ago with all my silver mining notions. I had been in silver mining for years, and when a man said mine, I naturally thought of a crevice between walls, striking away down towards the center of the earth. It took me several months to learn that while silver veins are the result of upward fracture, coal veins, or rather seams, are the result of deposition. But after I got the hang of it my native county presented beauties I had never dreamed of before I went west. I claim it is one of the most interesting geological fields in the world. And the chief beauty of it is, that it is as rich to the economist, as to the student. I believe the old gazetteer says that Parke has the largest continuous body of good land in the state—well, I now maintain and think I can prove it, that if the surface were scraped off to a depth of ten feet, it would still be a county of practically inexhaustible wealth."

R.—"In coal or rock?"

B.—"Principally coal. You see Parke lies in the eastern margin of the Illinois coal field, and the under-coal limestone just comes in sight in the easternedge of the county. You can see it plainest in the bank of Big Raccoon near Portland Mills. This stone lines the eastern edge of the great coal fields, and I think one can travel along it in Parke from creek to creek the outcrop almost to the exactness of a few rods.

"The country rock, as silver miners say, about Indianapolis is Devonian; as you go west you cross the edges of strata and get into newer rock till in Punam, you reach the last of the Permian, which we call Indiana limestone, and beyond is the shore of the old marsh which is now the coal field."

"The old include Example 19.

"Dees it include Fountain?" B. "The eastern margin of the coal field strikes this state up in Warren county and continues thence in a general south-south-east direction; so it comes down through Fountain a few miles east of Covington, enters Parke a little west of its northeast Fountain a few miles east of Cavington, enters Parke a little west of its northeast corner and goes out at its southeast corner; thence it goes en in the same direction to the Ohio. This leaves the eastern part of Fountain and all of Montgomery in the old limestone—that is to say, the limestone made just before goed coal seams were made. Now for some mysterious reason the best, or the most reliable, coal seams are found in a strip not more than forty miles wide along the margin of the old basin; when you get out toward the center of that basin there is a fault in the seams. The forty, mile wide strip includes all of Parke, except a narrow land on its eastern border, and just east of it comes the strip of Indiana and limestone, which preserves the same south southeast direction across the state. Our court house stone is of this—most of it, I believe, from Steinburg quarry. But technical details are a bore; the point I make is that a rail-road straight west from Indianapthis would cross the very best part of the coal seams, the best section of the Indianalimestone strip and the finest agricultural region in the Wabash valley. Now, maybe you folks can run a line somewhere else which will strike as many sources of richness, but I don't believe it."

R. "Well, why is not the I., D. & S. such a line already, or the I., B. & W?"

B. "The I., D. & S. runs clear north of the coal fields, except in the western strip of Fountain. The I., D. & S., is a good a line already, or the L, B. & W?"

B. "The L, D. & S. runs clear north of the coal fields, except in the western strip of Fountain. The L, D. & S., is a good read, I have nothing to say against it, and it runs through a fine country for general traffic. Still, if you will examine the geological maps and reports, you must see that for a coal road proper, one that is to make coal a specialty and yet get all the advantages of general traffic, your true route is as straight west from Indianapolis as nature will let you run it."

R. "Well, why didn't your citizens secure the L, D. & S.?"

B. "You can't prove it by me. I was in the kingdom of Brigham when that little hocus took place. Since my return I tried to write the history of it by evidence and got myself into a such a scrape that I have since been glad to let it alone. Let that question pass—this is a hard winter, and I don't want to take on fresh responsibilities. Nowlet me sum up: Parke county has eight known and well defined seams of good coal—the Sand creek coal being acknowledged the best in the state for steam making; she has the largest continuous body of good land in the state; and the best system of gravel reads, with four more soen to be bullt. The proposed line will strike all the large towns and the richest tracts, and give you not only all the coal you can call for but an immense traffic in produce and live stock, and don't you forget it! Selah."

January 26, 1881:

FORMER ADJUDICATION—PRACTICE.

6497. Meredith Walker et al. vs. Moses Heller, Henry C. C. Affirmed. Niblack, C. J.

This was an action by Moses Heller, as assignee of Joseph B. Dunbar upon a promissory note executed to the said Dunbar by Thomas L. Marsh and Meredith Walker. Answer: Another action pending in the supreme court upon an appeal from the Hancock C. C. (2.) Another action upon the note now pending in the Hancock C. C. Judyment for appellee. The court below instructed the jury that the evidence was not sufficient to sustain Walker's answer. There was no error in this charge. The record evidence to which the instruction related, showed that a previous action had been commenced by the plaintiff against the defendants in the Hancock C. C., on the same note; that Walker made defense; that issue was joined; and that the court after hearing the evidence took the case under advisement; that on the next day the plaintiff came intocourt and asked leave to dismiss his action and that leave was granted; that thereupon, judgment was rendered in favor of the defendant for costs; and that the defendant, Walker, had appealed from that judgment to the supreme court. This record evidence did not establish the pendency of a previous action on the same note. Nor did the record evidence show a former adjudication of the subject of this action, because the judgment put in evidence by it was not a judgment on the merits of the case in which it was rendered. The enly effect that an appeal to this court has over a judgment is to stay execution; in other respects the judgment continues to be binding on the parties during the pendency of the appeal (28 Ind., 352; 57 Ind., 434,) COUNTY COMMISSIONERS—STATUTES CONSTRUED. This was an action by the turnpike company against the appellee on Foontract in which the commissioners undertook to contract that the commissioners undertook to contract that the county would keep in repair certain parts of a turnpike road. A demurrer to appellant's complaint was sustained. The contract was void. There is no law which expressly, or by implication, authorizes the board of commissioners to appropriate money to the county in the working and repairing of the highways of the county. The tax for that purpose is assessed and expended by township officers. Still less is any authority granted to furnish aid to a gravel road or turnpike company, in building or repairing its road at the expense of the county commissioners is defined by the statutes, and money can only be expended by them for certain specified objects. (32 Ind., p. 244; 51 Ind., 234; 55 Ind., 334.) Section 4, of the gravel road act. 1 R. S. 655, provides that turnpikes may be located with the conseat of the county commissioners, upon any state or county road, or ather public highways, entered on record, and granted upon such conditions as to such board may seem just, etc. It is claimed by the appellant that the use of the term "conditions" would allow the commissioners to enter into contracts. That is not the meaning of the law.

It is not contemplated that the expense of re

ers to enter into contracts. That is not the meaning of the law.

It is not contemplated that the expense of repairing bridges should be paid out of the county treasury, except upon a contingency, and except when the cost exceeds the ability of the road district to pay. If this contract were to be held valid the county would have to pay all the expenses of the repairs, no portion falling on the road district. The statutes making it the duty of the county firepair must be so construed that the expense of such repair must be borne by the road district so far as it is able, and the residue by the county. The obligation to aid by advances from the county is not unconditional. It derom the county is not unconditional. It depends whether or not the commissioners deem the bridge of sufficient importance to make an appropriation.

the bridge of sufficient importance to make an appropriation.

APPRENTICESHIP.

7808. William Kerwin vs. John Myers. Grant C. C. Affirmed. Howk, J.

In this action, the appellee sued to recover a certain sum alleged to be due for eleven years work and labor done for the appellant. This case was before this court in another form in Kerwin vs. Wright, 59 Ind., 369. In that case the mother of the appellee in this case, who was then an infant, sued to recover for work and labor performed by her infant son. The appellant pleaded in bar of the action that the work and labor performed were performed under a certain agreement of apprenticeship. In the case cited it was held that said agreement of apprenticeship was doubtless inoperative as an indenture of apprenticeship, because not exceuted in conformity with the statute. The court further said that, as the agreement was invalid as an indenture of apprenticeship, he boy was in no way bound by it, and he might sue the defendant for his services. There is no evidence that the boy ever ratified the contract of apprenticeship after becoming of age, and he is therefore entitled to bring the action.

ing of age, and he is therefore entitled to bring the action.

SURETY—MISREPRESSIVATION.

6811. Mathias Clodfelter vs. Henry C. Hunter. Montgomery C. C. Reversed. Elliott, J.

The complaint in this action is upon a promissory note executed by appellant and another.

[1.] It has been many times decided that a promise made by one to another from whom the consideration moves, for the benefit of a third may be sued on by the party for whose benefit the promise was made. (24 Ind., 315; 39 Ind., 112; 58 Ind., 66; 68 Ind., 436.) [2.] It has been long settled that misrepresentation of the legal effect of a written instrument does not constitute fraud. (44 Ind., 242; 9 Ind., 488; 64 Ind., 202.) Where misrepresentation of the contents of a written instrument are changed it must be shown that such representation were false, and diligence must be shown on the part of the complaining party. (58 Ind., 276.) To excuse diligence on the ground of trust and confidence and relationship and situation of the parties.

PAILURE OF CONSIDERATION.

6591. James W. Jones, executor of Robertson Jones, vs. Valentine Noe et al. Franklin C. C. Reversed. Woods, J.

This was a action by the appellant to foreclose a Longage upon real estate. The answer, that the note and mortgage were given for part of the purchase price of cortain real estate, and that the plaintiff had misrepresented the facts about the said real estate for the purpose of cheeting the defendant. [1.] The consideration of a contract of deed is always, as between the immediate parties thereto, open to inquiry, and this inquiry may go to the extent of showing the consideration different from that expressly stated in the contract. (9 Ind., 39; 19 Ind., 389: 57 Ind., 590.) [2.] Where an executor enters into covenants without authority from his testior, such covenants if obligatory at all, will be deemed to be the personal covenants of the executor. (Rawl on covenants, 571-573.) [3.] Where a deed ismade and accepted and posession taken by the purchaser to resist the payment of the SURETY-MISREPRESENTATION.

KIDNEGEN is highly recommended and unsurpassed for weak or foul kid neys, dropsy, Bright's disease, nervous debility, of any obstructions arising from kidney or bladder diseases. Also, for YELLOW FEVER, BLOOD and KIDNEY POISONING, in infected and malarial sections.

By the distillation of a FOREST LEAF with JUNIPER BERRIES and BARLEY MALT we have discovered KIDNEGEN, which acts specifically on the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, removing injurious deposits formed in the bladder and preventing any straining, smarting sensation, heat or irritation in the membraneous lining of the ducts, or water passages. It excites a healthy action in the kidneys, giving them strength, vigor and restoring these organs to a healthy condition, showing its effects on both the color and easy flow of urine. It can be taken at all times, in all climatesand under all circumstances without injury to the system. Unlike any other preparation for Kidney difficulties, it has a very pleasant and agreeable taste and flavor. It has been difficult to make a preparation containing positive diuretic properties which will not nauseate, but be acceptible to the stomach. Before taking any Liver Medicine, try a bothe of KIDNEGEN to CLEANSE the KIDNEYS from foul matter. Try it and you will always use it as a family medicine. Ladies especially will like it, and Gentlemen will find in KIDNEGEN the best Kidney Tonic ever used.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Belief that Davis and Poindexter will Vote for Gray's Nominees.

To-morrow is the day fixed for the con-

A JAUNT TO LAFAYETTE NEXT TUESDAY.

To-morrow is the day fixed for the consideration of Governor Gray's appointments to fill the vacancies in the boards of trustees in the benevolent institutions. On the day he retired from office he sent in to the senate the names of the present managers for confirmation for another term. They were referred to the committee on executive appointments, which has thus far failed to report except to ask for further time. By order of the senate the committee is to report to-morrow, and the question of confirming or rejecting the appointments will then be considered. If confirmed, which the democrats feel positive will be the case, the incumbents will continue in office for four years or during the whole of Governor Porter's term. It is expected that Senators Poindexter and

Davis will vote with the democrats for this purpose, and that the alliance, offensive and defensive, of the greenbackers and democrats will thus be more firmly cemented.

Many members of the house complain that the arrangement whereby that body holds only forenoon sessions fails to accomplish the purposes intended, from the fact that members neglect committee work, which is put off until evening as heretofore. One member complained yesterday that he was compelled to attend three committee meetings in the evening, while not one of those of which he is a member meet in the afterneon. he is a member meet in the afterneon. There is no doubt, the members all say, but There is no doubt, the members all say, but the present arrangement is the one from which the house will be able to get the greatest amount of efficient work if the original intention is carried out, and good faithful work is done after dinner in committees instead of open house. Much of the session is now gone, and yet the work is scarcely more than barely begun, so that if not pushed more energetically an extra session will be required as was the case two years ago.

Senator Woollen's bill for the prevention and punishment of bribery at elections, has and punishment of bribery at elections, has been passed by the senate. It provides that if any person shall hire or buy, or offer to do so, or shall furnish money or any-thing of value, for the purpose of buying, or hiring, or inducing any person to vote for any candidate; or any voter who shall sell or barter his vote for money or any thing of value, or by says home or or any thing of value or by any hope or promise of reward, shall be guilty of a mis-promise of reward, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon 'conviction thereof shall be fined not less than $25 or more than $50, and shall be disfranchised and rendered incapable of holding any office of trust or profit for any period not less than two years or more than five.

Senator Van Vorhis's bill providing for the election of justices of the peace, passed by the senate this morning, provides that the board of county commissioners may fix the number of justices of the peace in each township, not to exceed three in each township, and one additional for each incorporate city of twenty thousand inhabitants in any township. The bill is particularly aimed at the affairs of Center township, Marion county.
There are now seven or eight justices in this township, while under the new bill no greater number than four can be chosen.

Hilton Bowman, an Illinois street junk dealer was tried this morning in the police court on the charge of receiving stolen property, consisting of brass fixings from the Vandalia railroad. The basis of the charge was the working up of the case by Captain Splann of the police force and Mr. Hennessy, special agent of the Vandalia road, who caught the boys last night in a baggage car. The plan followed is for the boys to jump on the cars as the trains come into the depot and while they are backing up to the freight depot to throw out these brass casting, which are sent here from the shops at Terre Haute for supplies, out of the car and have some other boy to pick them up. Last Friday evening nineteen of these castings were thus thrown from one train, and as they cost about $1.45 a piece, the loss is not inconsiderable to the statistics of the receiving statistics. Theft of Railway Fixtures.

thus thrown from one train, and as they cost about $1.45 a piece, the loss is not inconsiderable, to say nothing of the annoyance. These were identified as the brasses found in the possession of Bowman. The repetition of the act was attempted last night, resulting in the arrest of the boys. Upon the trial to-day, the boys swore that Bowman had not only bought the fixtures from them, but that he had been to them and askad them why they did not bring him some such arwhy they did not bring him some such articles, telling them how they could get them. He bought them for about twenty cents each. Upon this evidence Bowman was bound over in the sum of $500. The officers feel confident now that they will be able to break up the practice of training thieves, in which the railroads are the principal sufferers.

The Other Side of it. To the Editor of The Indianapolis News

In your issue of the 14th you have a lit-tle article from a Philadelphia reporter, under the heading of "How the Poor Buy

I have no doubt but that he is a good, kind friend to the poor, but he should not calculate from such a false standpoint. He says a ton, carefully measured, makes 168 pailsful. Well, now, he must have had a very small pail, or a mighty big ton. We get here in the west 2,000 pounds for a ton, no more; a common water pail holds twenty pounds of anthracite nut coal easy; then 100 pailsful makes one ton. Again, 2,000 pounds costs dealers in this vicinity, when unloaded from the car, not less than $7.25 per ton. Well, sell 100 pailsful at eight cents per pail, according pailsful at eight cents per pail, according to the price given by this friend of the poor. You have $8.00 out of the 100 cus tomers at a pailful each time, and you clear seventy-five cents on the whole, or % of a cent each time you dig out a pailful and sell it. I hav no idea that this kind friend to the poor would begin to deal out 100 pailsful for seventy-five cents profit. FAIR PLAY COAL DEALER. WARSAW, January 25, 1881.

The two words sound alike, close and clothes, yet what different ideas they convey. We close clothes his ideas in language. The storekeepers close up at the close of the day, also on Sunday, when they put on their best clothes, attend some church close by and study the clothes of their neighbors until the close of the sermon, when the minister remarks that they will close with the doxology. Few people, however, soon as they draw toward the close of life, like to wear old clothes, which leads us to remark that the place to go when you wish to habilitate yourself in new and fashionable clothes (and thus we close our remarks) is the
